

Have you ever seen a bully in action and done nothing about it? The kids at Pete's new school get involved, instead of being bystanders. When Pete begins to behave badly, his classmates teach him about "The Promise". Will Pete decide to shed his bullying habits and make "The Promise"?

RESPECT

Respect is thinking and acting in a positive way about yourself or others.
Respect is thinking and acting in a way that shows others you care about their feelings and their well-being.

Working Together Against Bullying

These scenarios have been designed to encourage discussion between you and your children to work together and find a positive outcome to a negative situation.

Elementary School Scenarios

Scenario 1

A group of girls are swinging on the swings at recess. Another student wants to join in but is denied every day. She begins to scream at the girls.

Scenario 2

A group of girls decide one day that another girl in their group will no longer be their friend. They don't explain anything to that girl, but they make it obvious that they don't want her around by ignoring her, writing mean notes about her or teasing her.

Scenario 3

In P.E. class, after clear instructions to throw the ball below waist level, a student throws the ball at other kids' heads on purpose.

Middle School Scenarios

Scenario 1

One student writes a rude note in class about another student's body. The letter is passed on to several other students who read it, laugh, and pass it on. Eventually it is passed to the person it is written about.

Scenario 2

Every day in class one student walks by the desk of another student and takes his pencil of the desk. Each time the student tells the teachers, the first denies that he took the pencil.

Scenario 3

Two friends are walking in the hall together. One sees a student he picks on regularly and stops and pushes that student against the lockers and holds him there. The friend kind of laughs and just stands there until his friend is finished and ready to go to class.
