Respect is thinking and acting in a positive way about yourself or others.
Respect is thinking and acting in a way that shows others you care about their feelings and their well-being.

While out searching for food, fruit bat Stellaluna and her mother are attacked by a vicious owl. Stellaluna is separated from Mother Bat and taken in by a family of birds where she must put aside her bat habits to fit in with her new family. But one fateful flight when she is separated from her adoptive siblings, Stellaluna is reunited with her bat family and learns that even though we're different, we're very much the same.

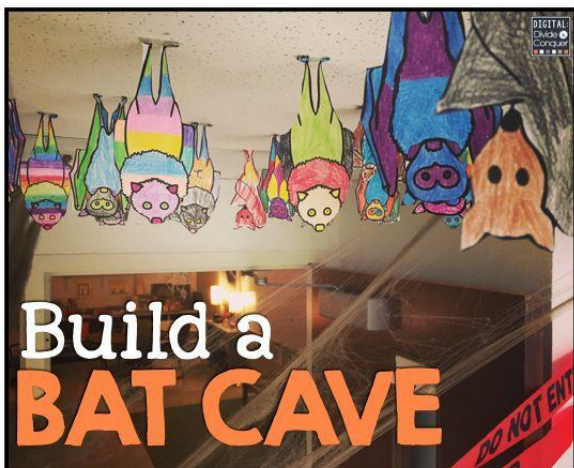

1. Have your children draw bats hanging upside down.

You can google Hanging Bat Printables, or Bat Printables, or Bat Printable Page, or Realistic Bat Coloring Pages. Print out an acceptable bat.

2. Cut them out and decorate as you wish!

Make sure that each bat is different to emphasize the importance of how people are different yet still the same.

3. Hang them upside down from your ceiling, door entrance, or anywhere. A tiny bit of tape will do a little work while gravity does the rest.

"How can we be so different and feel so much alike?"

Why did Stellaluna have to promise to respect and abide by the rules?

How do you think it felt when Stellaluna realized that she was hanging upside down? Does it ever seem like her whole world has turned upside down?

Why do you think it's important to respect the traditions, culture, and ways of others even if they're different from yours?

Despite many differences, Stellaluna comes to really care about her bird family. What can we learn from her about acceptance and respect?

What do you think it means to "agree to disagree"? How can you do that respectfully?

Do you have friends who are different from you in some way? How are they different?

Have your differences from your friends ever caused problems? If so, how did you resolve them?
